BOSTON, April 14.—Rusiness has been confined to the sale of small lots in the wool market here this week. The market shows an ertire lack of demand and with this feeling prevailing prices are somewhat fluctuating and the buyer in need of wool has no trouble in securing what he requires at his own figures if any-thing within reason. Dealers are now in thing within reason. Dealers are now in thing within reason. Dealers are now in hops of improvement in the market on the new clip and the prospects of doing bather after the fail elections.

Dealers express the opinion that the election of a Republican president will help values. The country has lacked revenue to pay running expenses and they expect that if a Republican is elected one of the first laws passed will be to fix a duty on word.

WALL STREET.

New York, April 14.—A further moderate increase was noted today in the stock market and there were indications of commission houses buying to a moderate extent - Activity centered in the industrial group. London came lower for Americans, but the local market opened animated and strong. Trading was affected by the considerations that have recently been noticed, the seasonable weather, ease of money, weakness in exchange, more encouraging advices as to the crop outlook and a belief that no disturbing developments are likely to occur in the near future regarding the Cuban question. The market at the outset was quite active, but the movement decreased later and the afternoon operations were only moderate in extent. Trade reports denoting the substantial position of the sugar industry and persistent buying of the stock by the pool have caused considerable anxiety on the part of the shorts as the manipulators appear to be able to manipulate the price at will. Sugar today rose 1% per cent to 12%, closing with a net gain of a point.

moderate gains. There was a fair sized out-inspection and error damage claims in from Ohie which also imparted some strength to the situation. At the advance offerings were latter, especially of July, there being conspicuous selling by the clevator interests; and exports, making a disappointing showing, caused early hayers to sell and prices receded. The weather continues the all important factor, the warm showery conditions in the winter wheat states having a bearish influence. Another influence which aided the decline was the sharp drop in prices at St. Louis which was said to be due to the change in the rules there regarding the delivery on contracts of Kansas hard wheat. Northwest receipts were much larger thus a year ago, and there were selling orders here from that section. The signal assrvice predicted favorable weather for the whiter wheat beit, but not so for the northwest where snow furries and colder conditions are indicated.
Advices from parties now traveling through the southwest stated that the crop, in Southern Indiana and Hilhools looked much better since the late rains.
The market railled on the good buying by room traders un the theory that there would be a liberal decrease in the world's

MURAT HALSTEAD'S WORK.

An estimate of the amount of newspaper writing he has actually done could hardly be accurate, but in response to some inquiries he remarked the other day that he had undoubtedly averaged more than a million words a year for more than forty years. If printed in book form, his newspaper writing would certainly have amounted to a library of not less than five hundred good sized volumes. His versatile talent was shown last month, when, alongside of his letters and dispatches in the Journal concerning the Cuban milliary and political situation, there appeared day after day his letters to the Standard Union upon the manners and customs of Havana, and the lighter incidents of life in that tropical town.—From "Murat Heistead, Journalist," by Albert Shaw, in the April Review of Reviews.

ADVICE FROM A LAWYER'S WIFE.

Hypothetical Question Put and Answered in the Same Breath. In the Midland Counties recently a farmer called at the house of a lawyer

In the Midland Counties recently a farmer called at the house of a lawyer to consult him professionally. "Is t'Squeir at hime?" he inquired of the lawyer's lady, who opened the door at his summons. He was answered negatively. Disappointment shone in his face; but, after a moment's consideration, a thought revived him. "Mebby yourself can gi' me the necessary information as well as t'Squeir, seein' as ye're his wife?"

The kind lady readily promised to do so, if on learning the nature of the difficulty, she found it in her power, and the other proceeded to state the case as follows

"Spoaze ye wur an old white mear, an' I should borry ye to gwang to mill with grist on yer back, an' we should get no farder than Stair Hill, when all at once ye should back up, an' rear up, an' pitch up, an' kneel down backwards, and break your neck; who'd pay for ye? Not I—dearn me if I would!"

The lady closed the door.—Weekly Telegraph.

To make an entirely different estimate of Abraham Lincoln's early career, the qualities of mind to which he was entitled by heredity and the influence coming from knowledge of honorable ancestry, is what the new blography published by S. S. McClure calls upon the world to do. This new book, "The Early Life of Abraham Lincoln." is founded upon a mass of new material.-Scranton (Pa.) Truth.
